Using Adobe Photoshop to design banners and background images

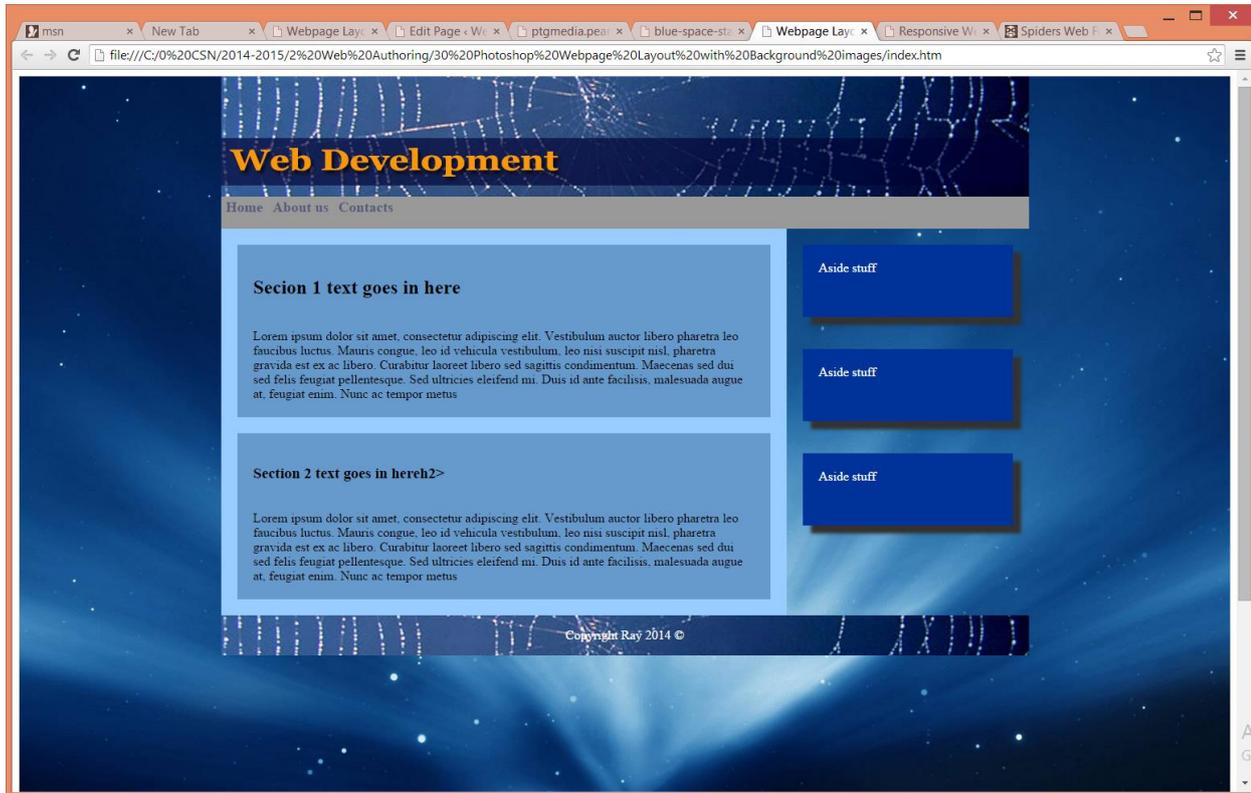

HTML

```
<!DOCTYPE html>
<html>
<head>
<link rel="stylesheet" type="text/css" href="style.css">
<title>Webpage Layout using New HTML elements</title>
</head>
<body>

<header></header>
<nav>
  <ul>
     <li>Home</li>
     <li>About us</li>
     <li>Contacts</li>
  </ul>
</nav>
<article>
<section><h2>Secion 1 text goes in here</h2>Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit.
```

Vestibulum auctor libero pharetra leo faucibus luctus. Mauris congue, leo id vehicula vestibulum, leo nisi suscipit nisl, pharetra gravida est ex ac libero. Curabitur laoreet libero sed sagittis condimentum. Maecenas sed dui sed felis feugiat pellentesque. Sed ultricies eleifend mi. Duis id ante facilisis, malesuada augue at, feugiat enim. Nunc

ac tempor metus</section>

<section><h3>Section 2 text goes in hereh2></h3>
Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit. Vestibulum auctor libero pharetra leo faucibus luctus. Mauris congue, leo id vehicula vestibulum, leo nisi suscipit nisl, pharetra gravida est ex ac libero. Curabitur laoreet libero sed sagittis condimentum. Maecenas sed dui sed felis feugiat pellentesque. Sed ultricies eleifend mi. Duis id ante facilisis, malesuada augue at, feugiat enim. Nunc ac tempor metus</section>

</article>

<aside>Aside stuff</aside>

<aside>Aside stuff</aside>

<aside>Aside stuff</aside>

<footer>Copyright Ray 2014 &copy</footer>

</body>

</html>

CSS

```
#outerWrapper{
        width:100%;
        padding-bottom: 66.666666666667%;
        background-image:url(images/stars.jpg);
        background-size:cover;
        background-position:center;
}
```

To put a drop shadow on Aside Element use the following CSS box-shadow: 10px 10px 5px #333333;